Our story

culturev8 was founded by Dr Chris McLaughlin, whose work across the Torres Strait and regional Australia shaped our firm's philosophy that culture is the foundation of strong, resilient communities.

Our combined professional experience supporting regional, rural, remote and Indigenous communities, alongside government, industry, and the non-profit sector in the pursuit of community-led development, continues to underpin our firm's approach.

Today, we are a trusted legal, business strategy and engagement consultancy firm supporting councils, NGOs, and private sector partners across Queensland, and beyond.

We strengthen communities through culturally grounded engagement, and support organisations with strategic, practical solutions that deliver real impact.

We feel so strongly about our philosophy that we named ourselves after it to always guide us...

cultivating culture (culturev8).
